Mayor Cooper launches new initiative to bolster out-of-school programming for Nashville students

The Mayor’s office will partner with national non-profit FUSE to identify gaps and better connect Davidson County families to programs in their area.

Mayor John Cooper is launching a new initiative that will strengthen out-of-school programming for Nashville students and give families a new resource to find activities in their area. The Mayor’s office will partner with FUSE, a national non-profit dedicated to helping local communities improve education and advance racial equity, to create a database of out-of-school services that will be available for families across every neighborhood.

Mayor Cooper is calling on all non-profit and community organizations to fill out a survey that will assist in building out the database.

“Improving education and ensuring our children have the resources they need to thrive is key to achieving the kind of sustainable and equitable growth that benefits everyone,” said Mayor John Cooper. “We’re grateful to our partners at FUSE for helping us advance this new initiative that will give parents across Nashville a new tool to find out-of-school programs for their children.

Research has consistently shown that access to out-of-school programming can improve attendance, lower dropout rates, close the performance gap in under-served communities and contribute to a host of other benefits for our kids. Today is an important first step toward educating parents about the options available to them and their children.”

FUSE Fellow La’Kishia Harris is playing a key role collaborating with Metro Nashville Public Schools and the Nashville After-Zone Alliance (NAZA) to keep Metro students safe and productive after school by launching the out-of-school program database and locator service. FUSE’s work across the country often finds them partnering with local governments to fully understand the challenges cities face and design year-long strategic programs to solve issues specific to that community.

“Through Mayor Cooper’s leadership, we look forward to assembling an easy and effective way for parents to better understand the out-of-school programs available in their area,” said Harris. “We are urging nonprofits, local organizations, community leaders, churches, and grassroots groups to participate in this survey so we can assemble the best data possible.”

Out-of-school providers may fill out the short survey on hubNashville.

Tennessee Titans to walk the runway with childhood cancer fighters and survivors in 7th Annual Rally On the Runway

NFL players will escort childhood cancer fighters and survivors in fashion show to raise money for childhood cancer research.

Rally Foundation for Childhood Cancer Research announced today that the 7th Annual Crew Aviation Rally On the Runway, presented by Bart Durham Injury Law, will take place on Thursday, April 21, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Marathon Music Works in Nashville. The event will feature Rally Kids, children who are fighting or have fought cancer, as models. These Rally Kids will be escorted by Tennessee Titans football players, led See Rally On the Runway on Page 2
Bunnies on display at Phillips Toy Mart for a limited time

As the Easter holiday approaches, Phillips Toy Mart’s tradition continues again this year with having a variety of baby bunnies on display for children to pet at the toy store. Bunny handlers will be present to assist children who would like to see bunnies up close and pet.

Phillips Toy Mart is located at 5207 Harding Pike and store hours are 9 am - 5:30 pm Monday - Friday. For more information call (615) 352-5363.

Rally On the Runway...

by Titans Pro-Bowl Safety and Honorary Chair Kevin Byard.

“Supporting Rally Foundation throughout the year has empowered and motivated my wife, Clarke, and me to do all that we can to save kids with cancer,” said Kevin Byard. “Being a part of Rally On the Runway is the big win for everyone: the players, the audience, and especially the Rally Kids who inspire us all!”

Crew Aviation is the Title Sponsor for Rally On the Runway 2022, and the event is presented by Bart Durham Injury Law. The evening will include gourmet dining, silent and live auctions, and a welcome address from Honorary Chairs Clarke and Kevin Byard, as well as a message from a Rally Kid. Rally Kids will wear the latest spring fashions provided by Dillard’s Green Hills.

Last year's event, presented virtually in conjunction with Rally Foundation in Atlanta and the Atlanta Falcons football team, raised more than $650,000 to fund critical childhood cancer research. Rally Foundation for Childhood Cancer Research was founded in 2005 in Atlanta, and since then has awarded more than $22 million in childhood cancer research grants to more than 406 projects worldwide, and has successfully advocated for $29 million in new federal funding for cancers in children, adolescents and young adults.

To learn more about Rally On the Runway and how to support the event through sponsorship, auction item donation, or to purchase tickets, visit RallyOnTheRunway.org/Nashville. Hands On Nashville announces finalists for 36th annual Mary Catherine Strobel Volunteer Awards

Hands On Nashville is pleased to announce the finalists for the 36th Annual Mary Catherine Strobel Volunteer Awards, presented by Jackson National Life Insurance Company. The 2022 Strobel Awards honor volunteers from 2021 – which saw a devastating flood, COVID-19 testing and vaccinations, and unprecedented need throughout our most vulnerable communities. The finalists are:

Direct Service Volunteer (Youth): John Thomas Atema, Maddie McDaniel, Riya Narayan

Direct Service Volunteer (Adult): Greg O’Loughlin, Lina Londono Tinsley, Kimberly Webb

Direct Service Volunteer (Older Adult): Edward Arnell, Vera Coleman, Carole Sergent

Capacity-building Volunteer: Sunny Fleming, Carole Purkey, Susanne Shepherd Post

Group Volunteer Service: Come to the Table, Congregation of Alameda Christian Church, Connect Us Outreach Ministry Volunteers

Social Justice Impact Volunteer: John Bull, Linda McFadyen-Ketchum, Veronica Zavaleta

Disaster Volunteer: Hispanic Outreach Task Force, Joe Gaines, Office of Emergency Management Emergency Support Unit

A screener panel read more than 140 nominations and narrowed them down to three finalists in each category.

“It was difficult to narrow this year’s phenomenal nominees down to just a few finalists,” said Hands On Nashville President and CEO Lori Shinton. “2021 was a challenging year, but the inspiring stories of these finalists show that Middle Tennessee is full of caring people who live out the spirit of the Volunteer State.”

The Strobel Volunteer Awards honor volunteers of all ages and backgrounds for significant community service achievements. Community members are invited to visit hon.org/strobel2022 to show support and vote for their favorite stories of service between April 1 and 30. Volunteers will be eligible to win a two-night stay at the Thompson Nashville hotel in the Gulch. One vote may be cast per day.

Winners will be announced May 13 in a small ceremony that will be live-streamed on HON’s social media channels. Finalists receive a $250 gift card from The Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee (CFMT) to give to the charity of their choice. Award recipients will receive a $1,000 CFMT gift card to give to the charity of their choice.

Hands On Nashville builds capacity for individuals and agencies to meet needs through service. Its programs connect volunteers to opportunities supporting more than 200 nonprofits, schools and other civic organizations; help these partners reimagine volunteer potential; and bring awareness to the challenges facing the people and places in our community.

For more information, visit HON.org or call 615-298-1108. Visit HON.org/strobel_awards.

I ain’t perfect, and neither are you! Romans 3:10-12

10 As it is written: “There is no one righteous, not even one; 11 there is no one who understands; there is no one who seeks God.

12 All have turned away, they have together become worthless; there is no one who does good, not even one.”

God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son that we should not perish but have everlasting life. (John 3:16)

21 But now apart from the law the righteousness of God has been made known, to which the Law and the Prophets testify, 22 This righteousness is given through faith in[h] Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference between Jew and Gentile, 23 for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God. 24 And all are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus. 25 God presented Christ as a sacrifice of atonement, through the shedding of his blood—to be received by faith. He did this to demonstrate his righteousness, because in his forbearance he had left the sins committed beforehand unpunished— 26 he did it to demonstrate his righteousness at the present time, so as to be just the one who justifies those who have faith in Jesus. 27 Where, then, is boasting? It is excluded. Romans 3:21-27 ~ A Concerned Christian

Sheldon Kopp’s wise quotes and proverbs on self-esteem

Sheldon Kopp was a psychotherapist and author, based in Washington, D.C. He was born in New York City and received his Ph.D there from the New School for Social Research. Although he had an active private practice, he also served as Psychotherapy Supervisor for the Pastoral Counselling and Consultation Centers in Washington.

A psychologist who wrote about self-esteem, he is famous for the many wise, pithy quotes and proverbs about the art of living he made through the years. Among his best are the following:

1. “You can’t make anyone love you. You just have to reveal who you are and take your chances.
2. “Everything good is costly, and the development of the personality is one of the most costly of all things.
3. “There appear to be many people who chose to go crazy (or become alcoholics, addicts, criminals, suicides) rather than have to bear the pain and ambiguity of life, a situation that they have decided that they cannot stand.
4. “All of the truly important battles are waged within the self.
5. “In the long run we get no more than we have been willing to risk giving.
6. “For each of us, the only hope resides in his own efforts, in completing his own story, not in the other’s interpretation.
7. “We must always see our own feelings of uneasiness as being our chance for making the growth choice rather than the fear choice.
8. “Often things are as bad as they seem. Even so, some of the time it’s possible to enjoy life as it is. But the better anything gets, the more you’ll miss it when it’s gone.
9. “If you stubbornly refuse to mourn your losses, you get depressed.
11. “You can so stand it. After all, it’s only pain. What makes it seem unbearable is your mistaken belief that it can be cured.
12. “Everything is difficult at first. I have never begun any important venture for which I felt adequately prepared.
13. “Without knowing for sure what’s right or wrong, take your best shot. There’s just no way to get it all straight. Mistakes are inevitable.
14. “Control is an illusion. You wait for everything to be alright, knowing all the while that the next problem is already in the mail.
15. “Escape is not a dirty word. None of us can face what’s happening head-on all of the time. It’s alright to pretend sometimes. The only danger lies in pretending that you are not pretending.
16. “Remember, we are all in this alone. It helps to know that everyone is in the same situation. It helps, but not a whole lot.
17. “We insist that our situation is special. It’s so hard to accept how ordinary we all are.
18. “We must learn to love in the absence of illusions.
19. “We must try to live a just life in an unjust world.
20. “We must be willing to go on caring when we are helpless to change things.
21. “Our best may not turn out to be good enough. Still, it will have to do.
22. “I’m not O.K. You’re not O.K. And that’s O.K.”

Accused Auto Burglar arrested after attempting to break into unmarked police vehicle

Accused auto burglar Lamarion Buchanan’s luck ran out when he pulled on the door of a detective’s unmarked police car, unaware that the detective was sitting in the driver’s seat.

Violent Crimes Initiative detectives were in the area of 6th Avenue North and Monroe Street Saturday at 10:15 p.m. when they observed Buchanan, 18, looking into cars parked in a gravel lot and pulling on door handles. When Buchanan approached the detective’s vehicle, he pulled on the rear and driver’s side door handles before realizing that the car was occupied. Buchanan fled on foot but was taken into custody a short time later. Detectives recovered a .380 caliber pistol that Buchanan had dropped prior to his arrest. The gun had been reported stolen on April 4th from an unlocked car parked on Hume Street.

Buchanan, of Delta Avenue, is charged with attempted burglary of a motor vehicle, theft of a firearm, and evading arrest. He is free on $12,500 bond.

Perfection is not attained unless the repetition is perfect. And the same is true of any chosen repetitive sport or other Endeavour. For example, accounting and tax entries are not improved by repetition unless each entry is made with strict adherence to the law and the theory of accounting. No doubt you have heard the basic synopsis: Assets equal Liabilities plus Equity and Income less Costs and Expenses equal Net Income. Income is a component of Equity. Repetitive Income increases Equity. It sounds so simple but as a college teacher for several years, I can testify that many people just can not grasp it. Tax law is more complex since the values of some of the components vary based on the law as well as accounting theory. Advanced accounting and economic theory is applied to cash forecasts and budgets. Compare that to knowing algebra but knowing nothing of calculus. Each segment of the foregoing is a building block. Each segment must be adequately understood to understand tax law. Now, consider the income tax forms. Individual Forms 1040 are Income Statements (without a balance sheet). Corporate (1120) and Partnership (1065) tax forms, with some variations for reporting certain additional kinds of income, are summaries of the aforementioned accounting reports. Both, the Corporate and Partnership tax forms are summaries of the Income Statement and the Balance Sheet. The synopsis creates a balanced report.

If you are interested in the theory of accounting and law, you may wish to go to www.irs.gov to obtain free information. I suggest that you order Publication 17, and Publication 542 and a myriad of free periodicals to enlighten your understanding of accounting and tax theory. It just may increase your respect for accountants and tax preparers. Or, you can just educate yourself to understand what your tax return really means and understand the complexity of our work on your behalf. You are welcome.

Youth Services detectives today charged parolee and registered sex offender James B. Josey III, 31, with invasion of privacy/peeping tom for hiding in a stall of the women’s restroom at the Hermitage Whataburger restaurant and using his cell phone to video persons in the adjacent stall.

A woman who had taken her two-year-old child into the restroom on March 27th noticed a phone pressed against the open gap between the two stalls. The mother yelled at the individual, causing a man (Josey) to quickly flee from the stall and the restaurant. A Whataburger staff member followed Josey and recognized him as a former employee.

During an interview with Youth Services detectives today, Josey admitted to videoing in women’s restrooms for sexual gratification.

The charge against Josey is a felony. A judicial commissioner set his bond at $2,500.

Josey is a registered sex offender out of Knoxville, where he committed similar invasion of privacy offenses. The State of Tennessee is expected to file a parole violation warrant against Josey.
Not everyone was born in April

Not everyone was born in April. (I’m an October baby) but my favorite gemstone is Diamond, April’s birthstone. Actually, the evidence is overwhelming that most people’s favorite gemstone, engagement ring stone, birthstone, anniversary stone, 1st prize award stone, make-me-explode from excitement stone, is a diamond. And if one happens to buy a gorgeous colored gemstone like a Burmese sapphire, which is September’s birthstone, she will probably surround it with diamonds.

What are birthstones, anyway? They’re specific gems that are associated with the months. The gem of the month you were born is supposed to be your birthstone, but lists of birthstones tend to disagree and change over time... how convenient. These gems are credited with special powers and qualities such as “fearlessness” and “serenity” and are said to endow their wearers with those attributes. If you wear your own birthstone, you get the power SUPER-CHARGED! The story is that birthstones had their origin from the Bible with Moses and the Breastplate of Aaron.

I have come to two conclusions w.h. to be true regarding birthstones. The first is that there will always be BE birthstones because the whole concept is rooted in our sense of specialness. Some people feel special daily while others tend to feel that way on special occasions. Anyway, we reinforce that when we give a little girl her first ring and set it with her birthstone. My second conclusion is that anyone can and should wear any stone of any month if they want to. The Jewelry Fairy won’t curse you for wearing green peridot set in yellow gold if you are a red-head with freckles! It’s actually going to come to life on you! Yes, Peridot, August’s birthstone, is great for red-heads, as are yellow and brown diamonds. Birthstone or not, some colors just look alive on some people, right? The market is reflecting this too. For the first time, colored gems have popped over that 10% of the gem market that has always been dominated by diamonds.

Keeping it chronological, September is the most popular month for Americans to be born and conveniently, Sapphire is its birthstone, which is the most popular of all colored gemstones. If you’re super interested, you can read all about sapphires on our website at greenhillsdiamondbrokers.com.

Sapphire is sturdy and great for a man’s ring as well as women’s jewelry; its magical quality is tranquility and clarity of mind. My own October has opal and tourmaline, and if you have never seen a great black opal or a screaming’ neon Paraiba tourmaline you have never seen an opal. Check out a magenta-colored, rubellite opal. Garnet is another month that has confused clients for years, and we don’t believe in confusing our clients here. Topaz is November’s original birthstone and if it’s large and of the pink or orange-y color, it can put a dent in your wallet. Topaz has been substituted with the less expensive smoky quartz and orange quartz, called citrine, and by blue topaz. Tanzanite is now the birthstone for December along with blue zircon and turquoise. Beautiful stones; both tanzanite and zircon scratch if you even look at them the wrong way, so think about them for earrings or a necklace rather than a ring. Did you know that December 25th and January 1st are the two most unlikely days for Americans to be born? A day off for ob-gyns, perhaps? January and February are the two months with the lowest birthrate in the US. January gets garnet, which sports an entire family of related gems in case you don’t like the warm red we usually see. There are orangey yellow garnets that are extremely brilliant. The green, tsvorite garnets look like Ireland or like lighter emeralds without inclusions, and you can hear them beg to be surrounded by diamonds. For February we have always had amethyst, which supposedly has the magical property of protecting one from getting drunk and breaking bad habits. Please consult your doctor because I only dispense gemological, not medical, advice. For jewelry purposes, get the largest amethyst that you can wear comfortably that is dark, strongly colored, purple to bluish purple in daylight and you’ll have something beautiful on your finger (while you are holding that glass of cabernet).

March’s Aquamarine has had a surge in popularity; the wearer was born in March, she is imbued with courage! You’ll want a medium light, greenish blue with no hint of gray. We have them; you don’t want a washed out looking aquamarine. Diamonds on the side are a must.

April’s birthstone is diamond. YES! Finally! You April babies or gift-givers to April babies, just come see me, and I will show you everything you want to see and learn about diamonds. We carry little diamond studs for children all the way up to ten carat and larger, GIA certified stones. If you were not born in April, so what? Don’t wait to be reincarnated in April. Buy a diamond if you want. Buy two. Wear diamond stud earrings. Get engaged with a diamond. We have them in all shapes and sizes, for ALL budgets.

May’s Emeralds run the gamut from too dark to too light to just right. Ours are just right, and are certified. It’s not so bad being born in May, the lark of May. If you inherited an emerald, you are very lucky! No matter what your birth month, I can’t guarantee the magical superpowers of the gems but I can help you pick one out and design it. Come visit me and my team at Green Hills Diamond Brokers! © 2022 Jennifer Michaeli
Branstetter, Stranch & Jennings, PLLC

The law firm of Branstetter, Stranch & Jennings, PLLC of Nashville (BS&J) announced recently that member Ed Gleason, who was recently selected as general counsel for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, formally began his duties for the organization on March 22, 2022.

Gleason comes from a family with an established history of working in the trades and is a lifelong labor attorney. His decades of experience include work in a wide range of labor law sectors, including the trucking, warehouse, parking, airline, railroad, and maritime industries. He has represented labor unions in federal trials and has represented clients in a wide range of labor law sectors, including the trucking, warehousing, airline, railroad, and maritime industries. He has represented clients in a wide range of labor law sectors, including the trucking, warehousing, airline, railroad, and maritime industries.

“The Teamsters have a rich history of protecting workers and families and helping them receive the wages and benefits that are fairly theirs,” Gleason said. “As the son and grandson of tradesmen, I am honored to be selected for this role and to go to work on behalf of those who produce goods and services and keep them moving across this nation.”

Gleason previously served as a member of the legal department of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, representing the Carhaul and Airline Divisions, and was the general counsel for the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association. He was also an adjunct professor of labor law at the Georgetown University Law Center, and taught advanced labor law and practice and procedure before the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) to J.D. and L.L.M. degree students.

Gleason joined BS&J in 2021 as the member in charge of the Washington, D.C., office, and will remain with the firm while serving as the Teamsters’ general counsel.

“Ed is a man of character and integrity who has spent his career fighting for the rights of workers both in America and internationally,” said Gerard Stranch, managing partner for BS&J. “Our firm has represented Teamsters since our founding, and we are proud and honored that Ed has been selected to serve in this way. We look forward to supporting him and the Union as they vigorously and proactively defend our nation’s workers.”

Japan-America Society of Tennessee

The Japan-America Society of Tennessee (JAST), a Nashville-based non-profit corporation, is pleased to announce that Madeline Adams has been named CEO by its Board of Directors and will assume leadership early in April. After an extensive review of more than 130 applications and multiple rounds of candidate interviews, a 13-member search committee led by JAST Board Chair Masami Tyson unanimously selected Adams as the winning candidate.

“Madeline brings to JAST the experience and connections that represent the membership and bode well as we look to the future of the organization,” said Board Chair and Tennessee Department of Economic and Community Development Commissioner Bob Rolfe. “Our firm has represented Teamsters since our founding, and we are proud and honored that Ed has been selected to serve in this way. We look forward to supporting him and the Union as they vigorously and proactively defend our nation’s workers.”

Les Dames d’Escoffier Nashville

Les Dames d’Escoffier (LDEI) Nashville elected its 2022 board, including Andrea Lindsley, partner at FINN Partners, as new board president. Additional newly elected officers include Claire Crowell, founder and CEO of Hattie Jane’s Creamery, as vice president; Erin Kette, director of food and beverage for QED Hospitality, as treasurer; Karen Vanarsdel, culinary instructor at Williamson County Parks and Recreation and at The Curious Kitchen in Murfreesboro, as secretary; and Dee Patel, managing director of the Hermitage Hotel, as past president. 2022 Board members for LDEI Nashville include Lokelani Alahanza, Kathleen Cotter, Kitty Fawaz, Laura Hagen, Mary B. Hammet, Charlotte Miller, Natasha Powell, Jenn Sheets and Tabitha Tune. Past President Nancy Vienneau is board advisor.

Les Dames d’Escoffier is a philanthropic organization of women leaders in the fields of food, beverage, hospitality and farming. The membership, composed of more than 2,400 members in 43 chapters in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, France and Mexico, reflects the multifaceted fields of contemporary gastronomy and hospitality. LDEI Nashville welcomed 14 new dames for its 2022 membership for a total of 91 members.

“Last year, we worked hard to support women through educational events, scholarships and grants. This year, we plan to... provide even more educational opportunities for the community, including our first Diversity, Equity and Inclusion symposium for the hospitality industry. I’m proud of our chapter for their commitment to our mission, despite the challenges of the last two years.”

LDEI Nashville donated $10,000 to benefit the Nashville community in 2021, with more than half going directly to supporting women through grants and scholarships. Six women who were recipients of this targeted support used the scholarships and grants toward business development for their local small businesses that will benefit the culinary, hospitality and food security areas of Nashville.

Also in 2021, LDEI Nashville hosted a year-long virtual series, “Sustain & Flourish in Adversity,” that attracted hundreds of attendees from across the country for free educational webinars led by LDEI Nashville members. Made possible through a grant from The Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee the series included five one-hour topical discussions, including “The Future of Farming,” “Redefining and Refining Hospitality,” “Restaurant Invention and Reinvention,” “Launching Your Food Business” and “Social Media Best Practices for Hospitality.”

In 2022, LDEI Nashville will continue its work in the Nashville community through targeted events, workshops, and their ongoing grant and scholarship programs.

Tennessee Business Roundtable

The Tennessee Business Roundtable announced the addition of six member executives to its Board of Directors for the 2022 term. Appointed by 2022 Roundtable Board Chair Keith Norman (Vice President, Chief Govt. Affairs & Community Relations Officer, Baptist Memorial Health Care, Memphis), the six newest Directors were confirmed last week by the Roundtable’s directly elected Board members.

“I am very pleased to announce the unanimous confirmation of these six senior Tennessee business leaders as new appointees to our Roundtable’s Board of Directors,” said Norman. “Each of them brings an important sector perspective and a unique executive skill set to our member leadership. I am grateful to each of them for their willingness to lead, and to their companies for investing in Tennessee and our organization,” Norman added.

Joining Norman and eight other Directors as new Board appointees for the 2022 term are:
- Competitiveness Council Chair and Director: Matt Haskell, Partner, Gullett Sanford Robinson & Martin PLLC, Nashville
- Education Council Chair and Director: David Pickler, President & CEO, Pickler Wealth Advisors, Collierville
- Health Council Chair and Director: Nancy Anness, Chief Advocacy Officer, Ascension Saint Thomas, Nashville
- Workforce Council Chair and Director: Chris Snow, SVP & Chief Human Resource Officer, American Residential Services LLC, Memphis
- At-Large Director: Colton Mulligan, President & CEO, Fox Fuel Creative, Nashville; and
- At-Large Director: Dakasha Winton, SVP & Chief Government Relations Officer, BlueCross BlueShield of Tennessee, Chattanooga

Directors Haskell, Pickler, Anness, and Snow fill newly created Board seats for the chairs of the Roundtable’s four Policy Councils, comprised exclusively of member executives collaborating on policy development in the organization’s primary policy areas of Competitiveness, Education, Health, and Workforce, respectively. Directors Mulligan and Winton, meanwhile, were appointed by Norman to fill two additional At-Large roles created to augment the Roundtable’s diverse, inclusive member leadership.

“These gifted and experienced business leaders are poised to help shape the policy landscape on the education, workforce development, health, and competitiveness issues which affect our ability to collectively thrive statewide,” observed Norman. “I am confident that the leadership they will contribute to our organization will advance our Roundtable’s ability not only to advocate effectively for pro-business policies, but to do so in thoughtful ways which clearly reflect the values of fairness and equity shared by Tennessee’s leading corporate citizens.”

Founded in 1983, the Tennessee Business Roundtable develops and implements pro-business public policies and initiatives that optimize the quality of life and well-being of all Tennesseans.

Convening senior executives and strategic thinkers representing over four dozen of Tennessee’s most-respected businesses and organizations from all three Grand Divisions of the state, the Roundtable has partnered successfully with Tennessee’s Governors and hundreds of business, non-profit and government stakeholders to create and promote policies that contribute significantly to the success of the Volunteer State’s economy and people, particularly in the area of public education. Guided by the belief that an educated, healthy populace and sound state fiscal policies are the primary drivers of Tennessee’s vibrant economy, the Roundtable brings together ideas, information and thought leaders with a view to becoming the most respected and influential policy voice for Tennessee’s business community.
Do you need a computer to contact the police?

At the Hermitage Precinct the other day I read the sign at the front desk that said because the front desk did not have anyone there I should call 615-862-8600 for help. I did and the people that monitor that number are either occupied with too many calls or this is just a way of putting off calls for assistance from the Nashville Police Dept. After the 615-862-8600 number rang and rang a voice came on stating that for assistance go to "hub nashville.gov" for help.

Does this make sense? If you need the police now, do you have to go to the library or home to access a computer so you can get a hold of "hub nashville.gov". Of course they always tell us not to dial 911 unless it is a life threatening situation. So if you need the police for any reason other than life threatening just wait until you have access to a computer.

Don't legalize Pot

Opening my own dental practice in 1969, was the proudest day of my life. However, it didn't take long for a pack of enthusiastic dental salesmen to descend on my office. “Try this new piece of equipment”. “Did you hear about our new dental filling material?” It took a while but eventually I recognized their true intention. They were there pushing their latest and greatest “pain pills”. It was all perfectly legal and most important, THEY WERE ALL COVERED BY INSURANCE! Patients paid the same deductible whether I prescribed 5 or 50 pills.

- Doing a complex root canal? Why don’t you try Darvon or Darvosen, with its built in sedative, just in case you might need a little help sleeping.

- Doing an extraction? How about Percocet?

- After some painful gum surgery, your patients would definitely need tylenol #3 with its ever present codeine.

“In fact why don’t I give you some free “samples” or, to make it a lot more convenient, our pre-filled-out, prescription pads?”

- Just add the patient’s name, the number of pain pills, sign it and off they go.

They’ll feel better and appreciate your help. Besides, our brand is the best on the market. Isn’t it great that they won’t bother you in the middle of the night anymore? (unless of course they run out of pills)

- It’s hard to believe that on my watch, 50 years later, we are now left with a legacy of addiction, overdoses and death. Unfortunately, it got a lot worse before we, as a profession, realized how bad it really was. Our role in this deadly epidemic was now obvious for everyone to see.

I started to realize what was going on, when I found myself having to hide my prescription pads. In the pre-computer era, it reached a point where patients and even staff, either stole them, or altered the number of pills I had prescribed. “Doctor-shopping”, became the new national pastime.

It wasn’t only the down-and-out, heroin addict living under a bridge. Addicts and full blown alcoholics now included the wealthy, educated house wife, who instead of helping her kids with their math homework, was checking her hidden vodka stache, or was planning the source of her next pain pills. It could include your lawyer; your doctor, your minister, or even your kid’s teacher. No one is immune from addiction to these legal, easily attainable drugs. Oxycodeone and the deadly Fentanyl made a terribel situation much worse.

1- Last year more people died from overdoses than everyone we lost in the entire Vietnam War.

2- 53 thousand died from drug overdoses alone.

3- Nationally, 34,000 committed suicide. (2 a day in Nashville)

4- Drug overdoses have become the leading cause of death in people under the age of 50. And that’s not a misprint. It’s more than car crashes or cancer.

5- Overdoses in our emergency rooms were up 45%.

6- Nashville’s 9-1 received 20 overdose calls PER DAY.

7- And now, perhaps the worse: 1/3 of all seniors (medicare, retired vets etc) 12 million of them, have been prescribed “pain pills”. They can’t live a day (or night) without those enticing little pills. For decades, rather than seeking a medical cure, they take these pills for their headaches, bad backs, helping to get to sleep, or just to make them feel a bit better. Your parents & grandparent’s nightly cocktail of those enticing little pills have resulted in a full-blown, pill-induced, addicted geriatric generation.

There is certainly enough fault to go around. No one forces anyone to be a drug addict or an alcoholic.

But at last, the final chapter in this trail of horrors is hopefully about to end. Tennessee’s Attorney General has reached a major settlement with McKinsey and Company involving their role in promoting the opioid epidemic. They admitted that they helped companies promote their drugs to doctors around the country. Greed and obscene profits were the driving force. Tennessee will receive $23 million dollars to be used exclusively to fight addiction.

The $573 million dollar settlement was in part over its ties to the disgraced OxyContin maker, Perdue Pharma, and their role in the epidemic of addiction, incarceration, & death. The settlement detailed McKinsey’s decade old scheme of marketing promotions and consulting services for the opioid manufacturers. Addiction comes in many forms, affecting every family, every socio-economic group, every strata of society. It may be impossible to prevent addicts and alcoholics from continuing their self-destructive behavior and seek help themselves. But at least for now, removing the role that drug companies played, acting through their doctor agents, will make it just a little bit harder.

Untreated alcoholism or drug addiction inevitably results in:
1. hospitalization
2. incarceration or unfortunately
3. death

And now, Tennessee’s State Legislature, mesmerized by a sales-tax bonanza, wants to legalize pot. I beg you. Speak to any alcoholic or drug addict and most will tell you that marijuana was their introduction to a life of addiction.

But there is hope. Take the first step. Call Nashville’s AA, NA, Alonan or Cumberland Heights Rehab. We have a non-judgmental, loving seat waiting for you. Your anonymity will always be protected. No last names please. Everyone there are recovering alcoholics and know exactly how you feel.

Help is available for anyone who wants it. Unfortunately, there are so many more who really need it.

Quality of paved roads

There’s some paved roads I’ve traveled in town that were paved not too far back which are a mess now and there’s areas that are crumbling apart. My question is when these paving contracts are issued out, does anyone pay attention to the quality of materials being used to pave our roadways.

What needs to be done is having paving companies guarantee the roads they just paved to hold up for a fair / reasonable amount of time.

Why do Cadillac luxury cars lack having a gas cover locking mechanism for protection

Why do Cadillac luxury cars lack having a gas cover locking mechanism to protect from the theft of gasoline or being tampered with. I’ve rented economy cars when traveling in other cities and all have a gas cap release mechanism inside the car. With gas prices being more these days and the stories I hear of the creative ways gasoline is being stolen from cars it’s really nice to know that my car can sit in a parking lot or where ever and there’s no protection from a thief tampering with my gas tank. Thanks GM!

Google or Metro government should have at least notified me on this

Recently a group of vagrants showed up at my Old Hickory home and started digging huge holes in my front yard. Being somewhat concerned... I asked one of these vagrants what he was doing? He climbed out of his 4 foot deep hole (one of seven holes dug in my yard) and advised they were installing Google Fiber Cable and would require the digging of approximately 2,100 holes in our 350-home neighborhood including tunneling under 350 driveways!!! I realize these holes were being dug on the so-called “right-of-way” but I was never given any prior notice of this operation. I contacted 23 neighbors about the Google Adventure... none of them had received any notification from our illustrious Metro Government, Google or anyone else. Calls to my councilman went unanswered. It would have been nice to have received advance notice on this fiasco. A Metro employee showed up in my driveway during this monstrous excavation. He advised me that Google was supposed to pre-notify everyone about the operation. He advised that he had talked to several neighbors and no one had received any notice! Thanks Metro and Google for the typical job you do and also Google... good luck on signing anyone up for your service in this neighborhood!

(Family Features) Easter is about traditions, both old and new, as well as celebrating family and creating lifelong memories. In fact, nearly 8 out of 10 Americans will celebrate the holiday this year, according to the National Retail Federation, which often includes egg decorating amongst the fun.

Decorating eggs for Easter is a tradition that dates back to the 13th century. Eggs were once viewed as a forbidden food to some religious entities, so people would paint or decorate them to highlight the end of penance and fasting. Yet still today, coloring eggs can help bring the whole family together and inspire simple moments of connection and creativity. From dunking eggs in neon dyes to embellishing them with paint, glitter and more, PAAS® brand — named after the Dutch word for Easter, “Passen” — offers these expert Easter egg dyeing tips based on its 140 years of experience.

Keep It Clean
Wash your hands in hot, soapy water before and after handling eggs, even if they’ve already been cooked or decorated. This helps protect you from any bacteria that may be on the egg and protects the eggshell from oil on hands that may make the dye not adhere properly. Make sure an adult supervises all projects to ensure food safety precautions are observed.

Hard Cook, Don’t Hard Boil
Although the cooking water must come to a full boil, the pan should be immediately removed from heat so the eggs can cook gently in the hot water. This method produces tender, not rubbery eggs and minimizes cracking.

Banish the Greenish Ring
This harmless but unsightly discoloration sometimes forms around hard-cooked yolks as a result of a reaction between sulfur in the egg white and iron in the yolk. It occurs when eggs have been cooked for too long or at too high a temperature. Cooking eggs in hot, not boiling water then cooling immediately helps minimize this discoloration.

Make Them “Apeeling”
To ensure easily peeled eggs, buy and refrigerate them 7-10 days in advance of cooking. This brief “breather” allows the eggs time to take in air, which helps separate the membranes from the shell.

Tap Into Your Creative Side
You don’t have to be highly creative to create an “eggceptional” egg. Use your imagination to create appealing eggs by gluing on fun materials found at craft stores, like fake gems, sequins, trims and ribbons. You can also use paint, including gold or silver metallic paint, to make eggs special. An option like PAAS egg decorating kits can help make the process more convenient and fun.

A Celebratory Dessert

(Culinary.net) When celebrating with family, there is nearly nothing better than passing a light and sweet dessert around the table. These Simple Macaroons are crisp, dipped in decadent chocolate and a completely scrumptious option for celebrating Spring.

Simple to make and easy to eat, this sweet dessert is a crowd favorite. With a fresh kick of lemon zest and crunch of shredded coconut, they are a bite-sized, delicious way to end your meal. They take little to no time to make, only baking 10-12 minutes for a tray full of tasty dessert bites ready to devour. With sweet honey and vanilla, the flavors come together to create something sweet but not overpowering. It’s a small, crumbly bite that’s perfect for sharing.

A Celebratory Dessert

Recipe adapted from marthastewart.com
Yield: 15 macaroons

1 large egg
2 1/4 tablespoons honey
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
grated lemon zest
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups shredded coconut
5 ounces dark chocolate, melted

Preheat oven to 375 F.

In bowl, whisk egg. Add honey, vanilla, lemon zest and salt; whisk. Stir in coconut until completely coated with egg mixture.

Using 1 1/2-inch ice cream scoop, make 15 balls, transferring each to parchment-lined baking sheet, spacing about 2 inches apart.

Bake macaroons 10-12 minutes, rotating halfway through, until coconut starts to brown on edges.

Transfer sheet to wire rack and let cool.

A campaign kickoff and fundraising event for Caleb Hemmer was hosted by Governor Phil Bredesen and Matt Kisber in the lobby of the Spaces Building. A crowd of more than 100 community leaders came to the kickoff event to see Hemmer, who is a state representative candidate for Tennessee House District 59. Kisber welcomed the guests and Governor Bredesen introduced Hemmer. Hemmer said he was honored to have so much support from the community and feels called to serve as a state representative. He said he will be effective, as he has the “right desire, experience and mindset to be a successful legislator.”

Hemmer said he will focus on the issues he believes the citizens of Nashville truly care about such as healthcare, a strong economy and improving the education system and he will try not to waste time on things that are unimportant.

Everyone at the event enjoyed wine, cheese, crackers, fruit and other hors d’oeuvres as they met Hemmer and chatted with other attendees.

Hosts included: Pam and Craig Fitzhugh, Babs and Bill Freeman, Clay Haynes, Katie Skartvedt, Camellia and Will Howorth, Claudia and Bill Huskey, Keri Kidd Cannon, David and Pam Kidd, Paige Kisber, Mark Padgett, Katy Varnay, and Dave Goetz.

Co-hosts were: Judy and David Bayer, Christina Bell, Terry Jo and Dave Bichell, Margaret Suanne Bone, Stuart Brunson, Randy Button, Michael Burcham, Hal Cato, Vicki Ervin, Charlie Gerber, Philip Hemmer, John Ingram, Catherine and Clay Jackson, Brooks and Bert Mathews, Melinda Welton, John Noel, Kathy and David Olsen, and Ian Prunty.

The Tennessee Performing Arts Center held the patron party for the annual gala on the historic Hermitage Hotel’s veranda.

Co-chaired by Adam Sansiveri and Nancy Floyd, TPAC Gala is the nonprofit organization’s annual fundraising event that provides critical resources for its educational, cultural, and community engagement activities. TPAC’s Manager of Special Events Kristen Sheft planned the patron party. For the decor, she drew inspiration from the hotel’s newly restored veranda, using pale blue tablecloths for the bistro tables with gold accents throughout.

LL Floral created bouquets in soft, neutral shades of white, cream and blush, with petite pops of blue, peach and pink.

White Ink Calligraphy provided gold lettering bar signage.

There were two signature drinks at the bar, an Old Fashioned cocktail, using Coopers’ Craft Bourbon, and a triple citrus gin and tonic, with Ford’s Gin.

They also had bourbon and gin tastings. Simon Ford, of Ford’s Gin, crafted three miniature gin cocktails for everyone to try: a classic dry martini, a jasmine honey Bee’s Knees and the triple citrus gin and tonic.

Each beverage was garnished with beautiful edible flowers.

Hermitage Hotel prepared the food, with the menu overseen by Chef Kelsi Armijo. Passed hors d’oeuvres were: mini crab cakes, vegetarian spring rolls with sweet chili sauce, lamb skewers, avocado crostini, strawberries stuffed with goat cheese mousse, and hot chicken and waffle bites.

There was also a dessert station with a variety of sweets, such as macaroons, truffles and banana pudding.

TPAC administers one of the most comprehensive, curriculum-based arts education programs in the United States, offering access to a variety of learning opportunities. Serving tens of thousands of teachers and students each year in 26 counties across Tennessee, TPAC’s education programs spark early learning, enhance classroom achievement, and provide valuable professional development for teachers.

Programs include TPAC’s Season for Young People, Wolf Trap Early Learning through the Arts, TPAC InsideOut, Disney Musicals in Schools, the Nashville High School Musical Theatre Awards, and an inaugural summer camp program set for launch this July.

TPAC is home to the annual HCA Healthcare/TriStar Health Broadway at TPAC series, supported by the HCA Foundation on behalf of HCA and the TriStar Family of Hospitals, a wide variety of special engagements and the work of three professional resident companies, including Nashville Ballet, Nashville Opera, and Nashville Repertory Theatre.
